

Slovak Journal of Political Sciences

ABOUT JOURNAL

In Slovak Journal of Political Sciences are published original papers written by political scientists in Slovakia and abroad, sociological essays from our social, economical, political and cultural life.

It pays special attention to the problems of political system, political parties, civic society, regional communities, the dilemmas of unemployment youth, social structure and mobility. Papers about the history of Political Sciences, about theory and methodology, findings of sociological research and surveys of public opinion are also published.

The journal is not only suitable for political scientists and sociologists, but also for the broader public, for university and middle-level school students, cultural and educational workers, activists of political parties and for all those who want to know more about European societies.

The journal is published by the Faculty of Social Sciences UCM in Trnava. From 2014 it is published only in English language (4 issues per annum). Issues include Slovak summaries.
