

Routledge Research on the Politics and Sociology of China

Series Editors: Reza Hasmath, University of Alberta
Jennifer Y.J. Hsu, University of New South Wales

Overview and Rationale

The modern Chinese state has traditionally affected every major aspect of the domestic society. With the growing liberalization of the economy, coupled with an increasing complexity of social issues, there is a belief that the state is retreating from an array of social problems from health to the environment. Yet, as we survey China's social and political landscape today we see not only is the central state playing an active role in managing social problems, but state actors at the local level, and non-state actors, such as social organizations and private enterprises, are emerging.

Coiled in this environment, this book series is interested in examining the politics and sociology of contemporary China. The series will engage with research that explores the intricacies of institutional interactions, and analysis of micro-level actors who are shaping China's future.

The book series seeks to promote a discourse and analysis that views state and society as contested spaces for power, authority, and legitimacy. As a guiding principle, the series is notably interested in books that utilizes China as a laboratory for confirming, modifying or rejecting existing mainstream theories in politics and sociology. Potential meta-topics in this framework include (but not limited to):

Aging and the Life Course	Labour and Labour Movements
Collective Behavior and Social Movements	Migration and Citizenship
Community and Urban Sociology	Political Communication
Comparative Politics	Political Economy
Consumers and Consumption	Political Psychology
Crime, Law, and Deviance	Political Sociology
Economic Sociology	Public Administration and Policy
Education	Public Opinion
Environment	Religion
Ethnicity, Gender, and Class	Science and Technology
Foreign Policy	Urban Politics
Health Politics	Work and Organizations
Inequality, Poverty and Mobility	Youth

Proposal Submission Procedures

Please forward your book proposal and CV to the Series Editors at: [rhasmath \[at\] gmail.com](mailto:rhasmath[at]gmail.com) and [jenniferhsu \[at\] cantab.net](mailto:jenniferhsu[at]cantab.net) in the first instance.